

ANNE E. DI SALVO

Partner
adisalvo@outsidegc.com

A seasoned labor and employment attorney, Anne Di Salvo brings a wealth of in-house and firm experience to her clients. Throughout her career, Anne has provided strategic legal counsel to a diverse range of clients on labor and employment matters, including:

- Employee and independent contractor agreements;
- Employee handbooks and policies;
- Training managers and HR staff on employment law matters;
- Wage and hour audits;
- FMLA/ADA compliance;
- Employee terminations;
- Discrimination claims;
- Whistleblower retaliation claims;
- Reductions in force/separation agreements; and
- Internal investigations.

Anne also has more than a decade of experience in defending companies in pre-litigation employment law disputes and administrative proceedings.

For nearly ten years, Anne served as in-house counsel for a collection of privately-held publishing companies with up to 1,600 employees and up to $1 billion in annual revenues. Anne led employment-law compliance across the organization, drafted and negotiated complex commercial contracts, and managed litigation matters.

EDUCATION

University of Maryland School of Law, J.D.
Boston College, B.A.
The Winsor School

SECTORS AND SERVICES

Employment Law
Managing Outside Counsel & Litigation

CREDENTIALS

Bar Admissions

Maryland
U.S. District Court, District of Maryland

Prior to her time in-house, Anne was an attorney at Saul Ewing LLP, where she represented employers in state and federal litigation and administrative proceedings, and provided day-to-day counseling to management clients on a wide range of issues related to the employer-employee relationship.

Anne graduated magna cum laude from the University of Maryland School of Law where she served as the Managing Editor for the Maryland Law Review. Anne also holds a B.A. in English and Philosophy from Boston College.

Anne lives in Baltimore, Maryland with her husband and two children. When she's not working, Anne enjoys cheering for the Baltimore Ravens and reading cozy mystery novels.